Ryota: Of course. Akira and Michio are talking. Akira is standing, and Michio is sitting on the bench.

Helen: I see. How about that boy? He is talking with the tall old man.

Ryota: He is Takuya. Oh, the man is speaking English. Takuya isn't good at English. Let's help him.

Ryota: I see.

Helen: Can you tell me other ways to eat it?

Ryota: Sure. Some people eat it for breakfast. They wrap rice with it and put a little shoyu on it.

これから、ナナとポールの対話を読みます。対話の内容と合うように、それぞれの空所に適する日本語を書きなさい。では、始めます。

Nana: Hi, Paul. You like fishing, don't you?

Paul: Yes. I often go fishing with my father.

Nana: Next Sunday, I'll go fishing in the sea with my father. Will you come with us?

Paul: I would like to, but I have plans next Sunday. If I were free, I would go with you.

Nana: Well, how about next Saturday?

Paul: Oh, OK. I can go with you. But I've never tried fishing in the sea. I often go fishing in the river.

Nana: Really? Fishing in the sea is also a lot of fun. We usually eat the fish after fishing there.

Paul: Do you eat the fish you catch?

Nana: Of course. Don't you do that?

Paul: In my country, we don't. We put the fish back in the sea or river.

Nana: I see. My father knows where we can catch a lot of fish, so it isn't difficult to catch them. Let's eat the fish we catch! 繰り返します。
